Your pension is a significant financial asset. Talk to a financial adviser to determine the retirement date that is best for you and your situation.

This Member's Benefit Statement was prepared for the Public Service Pension Plan by the BC Pension Corporation. Your statement is based on the information in our records. It is a snapshot of your account and an estimate of your potential future pension. We will verify the estimates when you retire. If there is a discrepancy between this statement and the final benefit entitlement, the final benefit entitlement takes precedence over the calculations prepared for this statement. Any change to your records will show up on next year's statement.

1 Your personal information

Please check all the information on this statement carefully. If you find an error, sign in to My Account on the Public Service Pension Plan (plan) website at pspp.pensionsbc.ca to update your personal information.

2 Your beneficiary

Your beneficiary is someone who receives survivor benefits from your plan if you die before you retire. On your death, we will pay survivor benefits to your eligible spouse or, if you do not have a spouse, to your named beneficiary(ies) or estate.

- If you have a spouse, your spouse is automatically your beneficiary (unless they signed a Form 4 Spouse's Waiver of Beneficiary Right to Benefits in a Pension Plan, Locked-in Retirement Account, Life Income Fund or Annuity Before Pension or Annuity Payments Start). You may also name one or more alternate beneficiaries for your spouse.
- If you do not have a spouse (or your spouse has waived their beneficiary rights), you may name one or more people or organizations (e.g., society, charity, trust or corporation) as your beneficiary, including alternates.
- If you do not have a spouse at the time of your death (or your spouse has waived their beneficiary rights), and have not nominated a beneficiary in My Account, your estate will automatically become your beneficiary.

If your estate is listed as your beneficiary and you do not have a spouse, you can name one or more beneficiary and alternate. You sign in to My Account to do this. If you have a spouse, you can sign in to My Account and update your spousal information.

3 Your estimated monthly pension benefit options

The estimates shown are gross monthly amounts. To obtain your annual pension amount, multiply the monthly amount by 12.

The plan offers a lifetime pension based on a formula that uses the average of your five highest years of pensionable salary and your years of pensionable service at retirement. For more information, visit the plan website.

Your pension estimates are based on a single life option guaranteed for 10 years. A single life option is a pension payable for your lifetime. However, if you die before the guarantee period has expired, your beneficiary will receive the pension until the guarantee period (e.g., 10 years) ends. This is just one of the single life pension options available to you.

If we have your spouse's date of birth, your pension estimates are also based on a 100 per cent joint life option. A joint life option is a pension payable for as long as you live and as long as your spouse or former spouse lives. This option provides for 100 per cent of your pension to be paid to your survivor. This is just one of the joint life pension options available to you.

Note: if you have not contributed 12 months in the statement year, your pension estimate amounts may be overstated.

For more information, visit the plan website. Please use the personalized pension estimator in My Account.

4 Your pensionable salary and service

Pensionable salary refers to the portion of your salary used to determine your contributions to the plan. Overtime pay and most lump-sum payments are not included, so your pensionable salary may not be the same as the employment income shown on your T4 slip.

Pensionable service is your actual working time as a member of the plan. You earn one month of pensionable service for one full month of full-time work. If you work half time, you receive half a month of pensionable service for one month of work. Pensionable service is used to determine the amount of a pension.

If you work full time, you should see 12 months of pensionable service for the fiscal year. If you are paid biweekly, and are full time, it is normal to see just under or over 12 months of pensionable service in a fiscal year. If you had a leave without pay during the year or if you work part time or casual, you will see less than 12 months of pensionable service.

Contributory service is the number of months you and your employer made contributions to the plan. You earn one month of contributory service for each month in which you and/or your employer make contributions to the plan. If you retire early, contributory service is one of the factors used to determine whether your pension will be reduced, and by how much.

If you think there is an error with your service in this year or past years, please talk to your employer.

5 Your contributions

You contribute to the plan through automatic deductions from your pensionable earnings. Your employer also contributes.

How Can I Increase My Pension?

You may be able to increase your pension by buying service for a leave of absence or for a period when you were not permitted to contribute.

Each leave of absence has a five-year deadline. You have five years from the end of each leave to apply to buy it, and you must apply while you are still employed with the same employer. For leaves under the Employment Standards Act, you can also make continuous contributions throughout the leave.

For details on how buying service can potentially increase your future pension, visit the plan website. Sign in to My Account and use the purchase cost estimator to get an estimate of the cost.

Transferring service

If you have service in another pension plan, you may be eligible to transfer your service under a reciprocal transfer agreement. Deadlines may apply. For more information, visit the Public Service Pension Plan website at pspp.pensionsbc.ca. Until the service has been transferred, it will not appear on this statement.

Helpful tips

Understanding your earliest retirement ages

There are two types of plan members:

1. Regular members
2. Public safety members (full-time and regular part-time ambulance paramedics in CUPE Local 873 and correctional members in BC Corrections)

The different types of members have different normal and earliest retirement ages. Some members have a combination of regular service and public safety service, and each part is calculated differently. If your member type changes, your earliest reduced pension age may be affected.

On your Member's Benefit Statement, we estimate the earliest dates you could retire with either a reduced or an unreduced pension. Depending on when you started your service, your pension may be affected by different plan designs. The rules in effect at the time you earn service will apply.

You may be eligible for an unreduced pension before you reach normal retirement age. You are responsible for choosing the date your pension will start and you must apply to start your pension. If you do not apply to start your unreduced pension when you are eligible, you will not be entitled to have your pension backdated to a previous date.

Note: the earliest unreduced pension date in your estimate is the date you qualify for an unreduced pension on all components of your service.

Example: if you have service as a regular member (unreduced pension age is 60) and as a correctional member (unreduced pension age is 55), the unreduced pension date will be determined by the unreduced pension age for your service as a regular member (age 60).

To see how different retirement ages may affect your pension, use the Personalized Pension Estimator in My Account. It estimates your pension with all applicable rules and plan designs. If your plan design includes a bridge benefit, it will be part of your pension up to age 65 or death, whichever comes first.

Thinking about retiring early?

If you're thinking about retiring, here are some key considerations:

- You will receive a reduced pension if you do not meet the minimum age and service criteria for an unreduced pension.
- You can buy a temporary annuity (full or half) to supplement your early retirement income until you turn 65 or die, whichever happens first. Please note: buying a temporary annuity will reduce your lifetime pension income after age 65 to pay for its cost.

- You may be able to improve your pension by transferring service from another pension plan, or buying back service from a time you were on an approved leave of absence.

If you have a current or former spouse

Pensions are considered family property. If you have a former spouse who has a right to a share of your pension, the service earned and pension benefits shown on your Member's Benefit Statement include your former spouse's share. This means that your actual pension benefits are less than what is shown on the statement.

For the purposes of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, people are spouses on any date on which one of the following applies:

- (a) they
 - (i) are married to each other, and
 - (ii) have not been living separate and apart from each other for a continuous period longer than two years;
- (b) they have been living with each other in a marriage-like relationship for a period of at least two years immediately preceding the date.

Note: if spouses live apart due to work commitments or as a result of illness, it is not considered as "living separate and apart" for pension purposes.

If your spousal status changes, please notify the Public Service Pension Plan.
